but think the indications are that this course will be taken.

Mr. Cleaveland offered a resolution "that the Committee on Finance be instructed as to the expediency of taxing the income derived from the government bonds." and in offering the resolution, remarked: "This is a matter of finance, relating to the financial affairs of the State, and that committee of the Senate has charge of that. The bill is to take into consideration the expediency of taxing the interest upon these bonds held by citizens of this State. The Senate is aware that it is not in our power to tax these bonds themselves, but we can certainly tax the income derived from them. I know that in the community where I live there are various persons who hold a large quantity of the bonds of the United States, and pay no revenue either to the United States or the State government, claiming that they are exempt from taxation. The object is to reach that class of persons, that the income from such securities may be taxed and applied to the proper sources of revenue."

Mr. Dudley moved to amend the resolution by striking out the words "income from United States bonds," and inserting the words "fncome, from whatever source it may arise."

The amendment was accepted and the resolution was adopted.

In the House a joint resolution was offered by Mr. Davis, which will be found in the report of today's proceedings. It takes exception to the message of Governor Bramlette, favoring the trial of Jefferson Davis, and as well as we could learn from a casual glance at it, recommends the release of political prisoners of all classes without delay. It will be difficult to make the men who have borne arms against the rebellion feel that such a general jail delivery as contemplated by this resolution is either just to them or the country. This resolution assumes that the President, Gov. Bramlette, and the Union men of the country are wrong in desiring that the law be vindicated in the trial of Jefferson Davis. It is too true that there has already been enough blood

We cannot conceal from ourselves, Mr. President, the fact that Mr. Davis is now imprisoned and held subject to trial for his life in consequence of being the head and exponent of the late movement in opposition to the suthority of the United States; and that to this position of perflows prominence our fathers and our brothers called him without his seeking it. In view of this, we cannot refrain from raising our voices in his behalf, or fail to do all in our power to shield him from consequences caused, in great part, by us and ours.

Woman has ever been the privileged pleader, even for those who have no special claim upon her regard. To the women of Virginia Mr. Davis can never be an object of indifference. Side by side with their loved ones, he has for four lorg years endured the vicissitudes of a war such as never before was seen. For us he was such as never before was seen. For us he without hesitation, sacrificed all his earthly possessions, and did not fear to subject his life to the grave perfls which failure would bring.

Until Sept. 15, 1864, the service on the Lincoln and Portland route was performed by the California Stage Company, at the rate of $90.000 per annum. The same company demanded, under new proposals, an increase to the sum of $250,000, which was accepted only to June 30, 1865. Advertisement was made on October 12, 1864, when the same company was again the only bidder, at $300,000 per annum. The service was offered by the Government at $200,000 per annum. This the company refused. Arrangements were then made with responsible parties to convey the mail at $225,000 per annum to June 30, 1866; after which it is hoped the service will be performed at more reasonable rates. The overland service from Missouri to California is performed under two contracts, one from Atchison to Salt Lake City, and the other from the latter place to Folsom City. The contract for the mail steamship service to Japan and China was awarded, on the 28th of August last, to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, for the sum of $500,000 for twelve round trips per annum, between San Francisco and Hong Kong, touching on the outward and homeward passages, to land and receive mails, at the port of Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands, and the port of Kanagawa, in Japan. The company are to build four first-class sea-going steamships, of from 3,500 to 4,000 tons burden each, Government measurement, and commence the service on or before the 1st of January, 1867. It is recommended that authority be given to the Postmaster-General to allow a compensation, not to exceed the sea postage, to sailing vessels conveying the mails to foreign ports. Prior to June 1, 1857, three lines of American steamships were employed in transporting the mails to and from Europe, receiving subsidies under special acts of Congress, amounting to $1,208,600 per annum. The expediency of restoring prepaid letters to the owners free of poetage, is again commended to Congress, with the additional suggestion, that letters be forwarded, at the request of the party addressed, from one post-office to another without extra charge.

The number of letters conveyed in the mails during 1865, is estimated at 467,591,600. Of during 1885, is estimated at 467,591,600. Of these, 4,368,087 were returned to the dead-letter office, including 596,097 army and navy letters, the non-delivery of which was not chargeable to the postal service, they having passed beyond its control into the custody of the military and naval authorities. Deducting 1,56,401 letters returned to writers, or held as valuable, the total number lost or destroyed was 2,352,424, or one in every two hundred mailed for transmission and delivery. Fully three-fourths of the letters returned as dead failed to reach the parties addressed through faults of the writers, so that the actual losses from irregularities of service and casualties, ordinary and incidental to the war, did not exceed one in every eight hundred of the estimated number intrusted to the mails. The returns of dead letters from cities are largely in excess of proportions based upon population. To them special efforts have been directed to secure the most efficient service, and it is believed improvements in operation, chiefly that of free delivery, will diminish the number of undelivered letters at offices in densely populated districts. The number of applications for missing letters was 8,664, an increase of 3,552 over previous year. A missapprehension prevails in regarding the dead letter office as a depository for the safe-keeping of undelivered letters, and not as the agent for their final dispeal.

Less than 25 per cent of advertised letters are delivered. In some of the larger offices the proportion does not exceed 15 per cent. The payment of two cents for each letter advertised involves a yearly expenditure of about $80,000 for letters returned as dead to the Department. Measures have been adopted to reduce the expenses, and the advertising is now secured at one-half the rate allowed by law. An obstacle to this economy is found in the law requiring the list of letters to be published in newspapers of the largest circulation, which should be repealed, and the mode of advertising left to the discretion of the Postmaster-General.

The number of offices is 419, including those in the Pacific States and Territories, and some of the principal offices in the Southern States. Orders have been issued for putting into operation fitty-five additional offices. The number of money-orders Issued during the year was 74,277, of the value of $1,322,122 52; the number paid was 70,573, of the value of $1,291,792 22; add amount repaid to purchasers, $21,784 86; making a total of $1,313,577 08, leaving amount outstanding, $46,545 44. The number of duplicate orders was 422. Of these, 355 were issued to replace originals, lost in the mails; 63 invalidated by age; and 3 by illegal indorsements. The receipts were: Fees on original orders, $11,462 95; fees on duplicate orders, $71 95; premium on exchange, $1 50; making a total of $11,533 49. The Postmaster-General concludes his repowith remarks upon the organization, object and condition of the Department. Its financial history shows that its annual receipts have represented in the condition of the Department. Its financial history shows that its annual receipts have represented in the condition of the Department. Its financial history shows that its annual receipts have represented in the same part of the strength of the capenditures. During it has tyear there was a surplus of revenue, a result the more gratifying because no part of the appropriation for franked matter has been anticipated for the current year, in consumer to the expenditures incident a restoring the service in Southern States. The hoje is indulged that the experience of Europea governments will concur with that of this, favor of an early reduction of the present his rates of international postage, which are great disproportioned to the necessary cost of the it termediate land and occan transportation, are ing the past four years amounted to $46,468,022 97, an average of $11,614.505 74 per annum. Compared with the receipts of the four years immediately preceding, which amounted to $32.322.640 73, the annual average increase of revenue was $3,533.845 56, which has not resulted from any considerable additions to the service, the ratio of receipts to expenditures having been larger than, with few exceptions, at any previous period.

Finally, the Postmaster-General objects to the misapplication of the postal fund, by the revenues being largely drawn upon for general objects of administration not properly charge able to the fund. If to this be added the revenue which would accrue upon "free matter," charged with existing rates of postage, less the charged which existing rates of postage, less the same annually appropriated therefor, it is estimated that not less than $2,000,000 per annum are lost to the department, preventing an enlargement of mail accommodations to that extent in those States from which the postal revenues are mainly derived.

TRINE AS REPORTED TO THE LONDON

On my way through this city to Richmond have seen some of the English newspapers of the 17th of October, denying the accuracy of the the 17th of October, denying the accuracy of the statement I sent you concerning a dispatch from Mr. Seward to the United States Minister at France on Mexican affairs. I do not know what was the "official authority" upon which my letter was contradicted, but I do know that the authority I had for the information sent to you was far higher than any which could be obtained in England at that date. Indeed, it was not probable that any one in London could have heard of the dispatch to which I referred, since it was only sent to France a few weeks immediately preceding my letter. Without, however, discussing these contradictions, it is my duty to inform you that the news I sent on the 4th of October was substantially true. I professed ontry. In that case it is curious that no one in England should have known that Nubian troeps have actually been in Mexico as part of the French force ever since the Emperor Napoleon went there. If anybody in London knows better than Mr. Seward on this point, then I must be wrosg; not otherwise. The Pasha of Egypt offered to organize a force of Nubians for the Emperor Napoleon in Mexico. They were sent.

principle, known as the "Monroe doctrine," and demniding that the French should be compelled to withdraw from this continent. Under correction, I submit that America is a more favorable standpoint for judging of the tone of American feeling than London. The people, I repeat, would rather go to war with France than see her remain in Mexico. You will not find this statement contradicted by a single fournal in all America when it is republished out here. They would of course much prefer that France withdraw peaceably; but if she will not do that they mean to make her go.

That is their own language, used at every public meeting, and at every dinner-table, and in every paper, from Maine to California. Gen. Grant has over and over again made known his discontent that France is not pressed to leave Mexico before the army under him is disbanded. In point of fact the Government is standing between the public sentiment and France. But in this country, at any rate, it cannot altogether disregard public sentiment. It must fall in with it to a certain extent, and in that spirithere is no doubt that Mr. Seward's dispatch was written.

The United States Government had been in The United States Government had been in The that the Pasha's negroes were compelled take service in Mexico against their inclina political system. It considers that the Emperor took an unfair advantage of the American Government in placing Maximilian on the Mexican throne at a time when its hands were tied. It believes that neither the French nor the English nation would approve a deliberate attempt to reintroduce slavery in America, and it regards the compulsory service of negro troops in Mexico as a form of slavery. It does not wish to go to war with France, but it does wish to protect and defend those political principles which the American people are most attached to.

Judge Paschall, on his return from Washington to Austin, issued an address to the people of Texas stating what will be required to get that State back into the Union—that a State Convention must declare slavery abolished, never to exist except as punishment for crime, recognize the rights of the negro as freedmen, not implying thereby his social equality with the whites or equality at the poles, the Legislature to ratify the Constitutional Amendment, declare the secession ordinance, ratification of the Confederate constitution, and the dependent acts for resistance, null and void, also the State war debt.

The Judge cautions the people who they elect to carry these measures into effect, and great importance will be attached to their consistutional reforms outside of the above measures will not be allowed unless submitted to the people for ratification.

One of these items is a circular from the head quarters of General Palmer recognizing the final adoption of the Constitutional Amendment forever prohibiting slavery throughout the United States, and considering it already a part of the organic law of the land, thus causng slavery to disappear from Kentucky, and all the laws in reference to it as now null and roid. The other item we allude to is the decision of Judge Johnson of our Circuit Court in the case of the State against General Palmer for aiding a slave to escape from her master, and dismissing the indictment upon the ground above assumed by General Palmer that the Constitutional Amendment has been adopted by ee-fourths of the several States of the Union, and is therefore a part of the Constitution.

The Judge takes "judicial knowledge" of the final adoption of the said amendment, and asmes that when the indictment against General Palmer was returned slavery had already eased to exist in this State, by virtue of the success of the amendment aforesaid. When cease to be operative. The court lays down the well-known principle in criminal law that when a penal statute merely malum prohibitus has been repealed, or has expired, no party can be punished for a violation of it, even when the yiolation was committed while the law was which doesn't exist. This principle would be equally good, we think, in reference to a statute malum in se as well as one malum prohibitum The penalties attached to a law can't exist when the law itself doesn't. That's too plain to require any argument.

It will be perceived at a glance that the grounds both of Gen. Palmer's and of Judge nson's acts are the same, viz: The ratification of the Constitutional Amendment by threefourths of the States abolishing slavery throughout the United States, and consequently in Ken-

Is it not notorious that the telegraph is unreliable, and that what it says one day is frequently contradicted the next or a few In ordinary legislation, no proclamation a

But no one will contend that a change in the Constitution of the United States, whereby the laws and citizens of Kentucky are affected, is analagous to the passage of a law by the Legis ture of the State. A change in the organi law of the land is not an act of ordinary legis tion, and the people are not bound to know it as in ordinary cases, until it has been made known to them by the Government of the United States in some official manner. In mo narchical governments, even, the people are not bound to take notice of edicts till they are premulgated. The contrary idea would be outrageous. And is a republican government more unreasonable and oppressive than a de-The Secretary of State, a few days since sent a letter to the Governor of Iowa, inquis ing whether that State had adopted the Const tutional Amendment, stating as his reason fo making the inquiry that it would be incumien upon him to make an official announcement to the country of the final adoption of the Constitutions Amendment when that should be effected. He stated that he had official knowledge of the adoption of the amendment only from eighteen States, thus clearly not accepting public rumou as official, much less judicial, knowledge. W must express our astonishment that any Judge should accept such public rumor as a basis for a judicial decision; in other words, that he ould adopt a telegraphic dispatch, not sworn to, from nobody knows whom to nobody know whom, as evidence in a court of justice. We dare not allow the assumption of such a prin ciple to pass without protest. We must not strain the law to make a point or subserve temporary purpose. We may say with Portis in the Merchant of Venice:

There were ten amendments proposed dur ing the first session of the first Congress in 1789. In May of the next year Mr. Steel moved the appointment of a committee to report upon the decisions of the several States upon the amendments which had been proposed to them. The committee reported some of the amendments had been adopted by some of the States in toto, by others in part, by some upon certain conditions, etc. Finally, on the 15th of December, 1791, it was declared that the amendments had been adopted by the constitutional number of States, and were therefore parts of the Constitution. e eleventh amendment was proposed March

The first ten amendments were declared lopted by Congress, the eleventh by the President in a special message to Congress, and the twelfth by the Secretary of State. In every instance of amendments the ratifica-tion has been officially announced by the authority of the United States; and we challenge either General Palmer or Judge Johnson to cite a single instance wherein any amendment to the Constitution was ever recognized as binding upon the States, or citizens of the States, or of the United States, before its ratification was publicly announced by a department, or some officer of a department of the General Govern-

THE MAYOR AND THE CITY COUNCIL BRIBERY .- The exciting question now is the ourse of the City Council and the conduct of the Mayor. The furore that has been gotten up on this bject was for a purpose. What that purpose was, we will hereafter show, though it would not be proper this morning, as the whole quesion, including this, will come before the Board of Aldermen, sitting as a Court to try the Mayor on the charge preferred against him, according to the mode prescribed by the written law, and the facts as they may be presented.

The charge of fraud as made by the Mayor may or may not have a bearing in his case; as it affects the legality of the proceedings of the General Council, it has no weight whatever. Under the Charter each Board of the General Council must judge of the qualifications of its mbers; and until one or the other Board hall decide that, one of its members has that Board are binding, though one or more on subsequent investigation may be proven milty of such charge. But every honest man asks himself at once, If the Mayor had reasons such as he stated, and proof to substantiate them, why did he not produce them? Was it not his duty to have sent such charges and proof to the Board to which the member belonged? Would not such a course at once have jus tified his conduct and placed him beyond cavil or doubt? The Board of Common Council did right in tabling a general charge of this kind when he stated he had the proof. The Mayor's duty to himself, his duty to the city and to the Council, demanded that his charge should be specific, not general. If stead of the message which he did send, "full

The citizens of Louisville are honest, intelligent, and have an instinctive horror of fraud and rruption. To touch this point in the character of our people, and play on this thing for the purpose of breaking down honest competition, and giving into the hands of a monstro. nonoply all the powers and rule of the city, is the game that they are playing for. It is a big game, and they play well. But the shallow device of charges of fraud without proof, and without point or specification, cannot be made accessfully in such a community as this.

We are confident, from what we know of the General Council of the city of Louisville, that the members of the Council court a full and tives in all their acts touching this case.

THE INDIGNATION MEETING SATURDAY ent.-Indignation is a very cheap article, and in the hands of adroit managers is a good nvestment. How wonderfully patriotic and public-spirited some men become, all of a sud-den, when defeated in a selfish scheme! Gentle sonls, they never cherished any other desire than the public good, never felt any other emotion than that of love for the "dear people!" He who doubts their professions is an enemy of the people, and is literally covered up beneath their

Now, what was all that splutter about Saturday night? What called together that great meeting of "substantial citizens?" Who adopted those very remarkable resolutions? meeting was called, if not by, at lesst in the int of s few men who had been defeated in getting a Street Railroad contract, and the personal friends of the Mayor, who wished to break his fall; and the crowd went as they do to all such gatherings, gotten up by sensation hand-bills. o see what would happen. To assume that one in a hundred knew anything of the merits of the matter before going there is simply ab-surd, for not one business man in ten on Main treet has given the matter sufficient thought to form a rational opinion of the merits of the Market Street Railroad question. We are satisfied that when the facts are fully and fairly before the citizens of Louisville a very large majority of them, especially the poor men who toil for subsistence, will approve the course the Mayor street railway whether they are not benefitted by it? Is the accommodation to Portland better to keep up competition on that line? All say yes.

than when we had but one road? Is it desirable Do not the laborers in the vicinity of California and Germantown want like facilities of travel with those at Butchertown and Portland? Is it not the interest of the city to give every facility of travel to the poor man who is compelled to go to the outskirts of the city for cheap dwelng? Does the wealth of the city consist of bricks and mortar? Surely not, but in brain and muscle-in its artizans, its laborers, its operatives. These are the classes to be most benefitted by street railroads. Your "substantial citizen" rides in his carriage and collects his dividends on his bank stocks, his city railway stocks, &c., and it may be his interest to have at one company-his dividends may be larger. But the people want competition in everything: it is the life of trade, and applies as well to the controlling motive with the Council in the contract with Henderson and others. The Portland road, heretofore operating independently of the city, is surrendered to its control, a communication is opened up with the heart of the city, along Market street, from California in Eighteenth street, and with Germantown in Shelby, and with the central southern border of the city beyond, running out Tenth and Eigh h treets, extending to the city limits at each extremity when directed by the Council. Such is contract, which the Mayor vetoed, and which he said, when passed over his veto, he would never sign. When this matter was before the Council, i was opposed by the friends of the City Railway Company, on the ground that it would hinder the completion of their contract by depreciating their stock. This point was made before the Council, and one of the members, a stock-holdin the Main street Company and a decided ent of Henderson's project, stated that of that Company was worth par, and would be if the right asked for by Henderson and others were granted.

But about that time the strategy took a sudden turn. Several of the stock holders in the | ment to the lovers of good music at the Ma-City Railway Company got up a new project sonic Hall this evening. The three overtures, which they called the Walnut Street Road, in luding Market street, when the Market houses were removed, and claimed that it was a better proposition than that of Henderson and others. They afterwards, by way of mending their hold, and after Henderson's proposition was accepted by the Council, effered a bonus of $25,000 for the route. The Council, actuated by an honest desire to secure the city's interest, did not recede from their contract with Henderson and others, for several good reasons. One was, they had no other means of securing other was, they were very sure, from the active men in the Walnut street project, that, if not in fact, it would be to all intents and purposes, and the same as the City Railway Company and thus they would fasten on the city a monopoly, instead of healthful competition.

W. E. Hughes and Robert F. Baird were two of the petitioners for the Walnut street route, and they were two of the "most substantial citzens" at the meeting, if one may judge from the positions assigned them.

Mr. Baird proposed to ask the Legislature to grant an appeal to the people in all cases of de position of the Mayor, for any cause and Mr. Hughes and others are sent to Frankfort with this strange request. We hope the Legislature will not act hastily. If they do, and refuse this request, they may look out for an indignation meeting! Some men are powerful in that line. MILITARY ITEMS .- By Special Orders, No.

628, from War Department, assignments of officers of the Subsistence Department have been made as follows: Capt. John W. Barriger, Brevet Major U. S. Army, to repair to Louis ville, Ky., and assume the duties of Purchasing and Depot Commissary; Capt. Michael P. ill (Colonel by assignment under the Act of March 3d, 1865), Brevet Lieut, Col. U. S. Army, on being relieved by Brevet Brigadier-General

kwith, to repair to Nashville, Tenn., there to assume the duties of Purchasing and Depot Commissary, and to have, under the instructions of the Commissary-General of Subsistence, genral charge of the Subsistence Department in the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, and in those parts of Georgia and Alabama supplied from the depots of Kentucky and Tennessee

Under provision of the same special order, Assistant-Surgeon John C. G. Happersett, U. S. Army, is relieved from duty in the Department of Kentucky, and will report to the Commanding General, Department of South Carolina, fer

The Military Commission, of which Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Coyl is Judge Advocate, will convene this morning, at the Department Judge Advocate's office, Chestnut street, for the trial of Harvey Wells, alias William Henry, the guerrilla, who was shot and captured by the citizens of Stephensport, Ky., about a month ago. This case is one of great importance, and will doubtless occupy the time of the Commission for several days.

Mr. E. J. Wood, the ever polite and accommodating chief clerk at General Palmer's headquarters, is entitled to our sincerest thanks for recent favors.

The Louisville Democrat bitterly and lgarly denounces the City Council for ordering the contract for the Market Street Railway over the veto of Mayor Tom Pert. This is easily explained. Mr. Hughes, who, we understand, writes the Democrat's articles on the subject, is pecuniarily interested in the City Railway Company. As a matter of course, ardless of the popular interests, he is 'down 'on any competition with his own inter-

THE INDIGNATION MEETING VERSUS THE AS-STANT CITY ATTORNEY .- The following is one of the resolutions adopted at the indignation meeting Saturday night:

Be it resolved. That this meeting of the citi-zens of Louisville, irrespective of party, do most cordially indorse and sustain the conduct of his Honor Mayor Tomppert in refusing, in accordance with the opinion of the law officer of the city, the Assistant City Attorney, to sign a contract granting certain privileges to a rail-way company.

Fortunately, for the sake of truth and justice. the Democrat of yesterday morning contained the following letter in explanation, from "the law (flicer of the city, the Assistant City Attorney," which glaringly exposes one of the frauds ught to be imposed upon the public by the author of the above resolution:

author of the above resolution:

To the Editors of the Democrat:
GENTIEMEN: In your issue of last Thursday and of to-day I notice a publication to the effect that, in reference to the proposed contract between the city and Isham Henderson, for himself and his associates, for a railway along Market and other streets, which was written by myself, I had advised the Mayor not to sign the contract, and that it was invalid, or that he could not lawfully sign it.

I deem it due to the General Council, especially, to say that I gave no such advice; but while saying this, it is proper that I should state what I said to the Mayor. He never yet asked me my optimo as to the validity of state what I said to the Mayor. He never yet asked me my opinion as to the validity of the contract. At one time, before he vetoed the resolution, he stated to me that he wished me to answer him three questions, upon points that he wished to consider before approving or disapproving of the resolution, stating at the same time that he did not wish me to take it as an offense, but that he intended also to obtain the opinion of other lawyers on the same points. As he made a verbal statement of the questions, I asked him to reduce them to writing, which he clid, and I furnished him my answers in writing, and supposed they were to be laid before the General Council, but they were not.

After his veto had been overruled, and the contract had been presented to him to sign, he came into my office and stated to me, in the presence and hearing of Mr. A. Y. Johnson, that he desired to ask my opinion upon a point about which he had already had the opinion of other lawyers, and the point was, whether Mr. Henderson had the right to sign the names of other persons to the contract, and thereby bind them, without authority in writing from them to him to do so. I immediately replied that he had not; whereupon the Mayor turned and went into his own room, remarking that my opinion agreed with that of the other law-yers. These are the only times at which the Mayor has asked my opinion about the con-tract.

I do not now remember what the question

I do not now remember what the questions were upon which my written answers were obtained, but they were not in opposition to the contract; and certain it is, I never advised the Mayor not to execute the contract.

It was not my purpose to have noticed through the press the articles referred to till after the investigation of the charges against the Mayor before the Board of Aldermen, as his Honor informed me that he wished me as one of his witnesses, and I replied to him that I would cheerfully give him the benefit of my testimony, and, at the same time, in his Honor's presence, stated to Mr. Baxter what I would testify to.

estify to.
But I am induced to correct the erroneou conclusions to which the writer of the stricle in your paper has come, as to the statement alleged to have been made by me; and am in duced to do this to set the General Council right before the public concerning any action of theirs as to opinions or advice given by me. Yours, truly.

ROBERT J. ELLIOTT,

DECEMBER 9, 1865.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT-MIRACULOUS ESCAL FROM DEATH .- About midnight of Thursday ast, a fearful casualty happened at the headquarters of Major General Palmer in this city messenger named John Bowes, belonging to the 2d United States infantry, fell fr ourth story to the basement of the building. and, marvelous to say, he was not even knocked senseless. The distance of the precipitation was more than forty feet. The young man fortunately fell upon his hip, striking the ban ster of the second story staircase, and plunging down to the ground floor, which is of stone. By the terrible force of his descent, the railing upon which he fell was broken entirely through, and one of the pannels shattered into atoms It is almost incredible that Bowes was not instantly killed. His hip was badly cut, but no ones were fractured, and, by falling upon the stones, he received a severe contusion on the head. Bowes slept near the stairway in the fourth story, and, as he had on his night clother only when found, it is supposed that he was nnolent at the time of the accident. Major dray, surgeon of the 2d regiment, was sent for amediately after the occurrence, and dressed the wounds and ministered to the wants of the nfortunate man during the night. He was conveyed to the regimental hospital on Friday forning, and we were glad to learn yesterday that he was recovering slowly.

THE BEETHOVEN CLUB CONCERT TO-NIGHT -We can promise a most delightful entertain-"Poet and Peasant," "Magic Flute," "Freischutz," and the "Wedding March," will be rendered by two grand pianos and a full orchestra. By an oversight that charming piano duett, "Euryanthe," by Weber, was omitted in the programme. It will be played in the sec ond part. We venture to assert that the three piano solos from "Lucia," "Trovatore." and 'The Last Hope," will be executed by the fair young ladies with a force and brilliancy only surpassed by masters of the very first rank. Let those who doubt judge for themselves. Some people think that refined and classical music can only give pleasure to those who have a cultivated taste. This is a mistake. Melodies like those on the programme for to-night would thrill even the heart of a savage. Remember the proceeds of the concert are for the

THE CAPTURE OF ONE-ARMED BERRY AS ING WHITE.-These noted guerrillas, captured on Friday last near Bloomfield, Ky., by a de achment of twelve men of the 2d United States infantry, in command of Major Wilson, were brought to the city and committed to the Military Prison last evening. Berry had been seriously wounded by a citizen of Bloomfield and was brought hither in a carriage. On arriving here. Berry desired to see General Palmer When the General presented himself, Berry said: "I hope you will deal with me in mercy. King White, on being informed that Berry was a prisoner, attempted to escape by mounting is steed and galloping away, but Major Wilson's eager troopers soon overtook him. He was securely bound on horseback, and thus trotted into the city. The success of Major Wilson's expedition entitles him and his men to the praise of all law-abiding Kentuckians.

Wood's THEATER -Misses Emma and Ada Webb make their first appearance at Wood's to-night. The plays selected are "The Mule-teer of Toledo" and "Thrice Married." In the first, Miss Emma sustains the part of Elvira; in the second, Miss Ada will assume five characters and execute a variety of songs and dances. The Webb Sisters are not unknown to our public. They have heretofore met with great success in Louisville. They are no less meritorious now than then, and we bespeak for them warm and general reception.

LOUISVILLE THEATER .- The thrilling drams of "Waiting for the Verdict" will be perf by the company to-night, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hamilton sustaining the leading characters. Their acting in this drama is truly artistic, and worthy to be seen by the most critical audi ence. Our play-goers should not fail to attend en masse. Marietta Ravel, the lovely pantomimist, enters upon a brief engagement at the Louisville to-morrow evening.

The meeting Saturday night, as many of the best citizens of Louisville said to us yesterday, was clearly designed by the parties inter ested in the City Railway Company to overawe the City Council to-night, and, if possible, drive them from the faithful discharge of their sworn duty under the city charter. Shall the design succeed? The question rests with the City Council.

Members of Congress are already overwhelmed with letters and personal applications from parties who wish to be nominated to the Department for positions in the army, a recent order having been issued for the filling of accencies in the regular service by an apportionment among the States by the appointment of the Second Lieutenant from each Congressional District.

The Supreme Court of the United States now has before it the following case: United States, plantiff in error, Le Roy M. Wiley. It involves this question: "Does the President's pardon remit the sentence of forfeiture of rebel property and reinstate the rebel in all his rights thereto."

This was a motion of L. M. Wiley, defendant in error and appellee, to dismiss the writ of error on the ground that the President's pardon and the acceptance and compliance with the terms thereof by defendant, discharged and remitted for the future, for which sentence of condemnation was pronounced in the District Court by pardoning the acts, by which alone, if at all, the forfeiture was incurred. The cause originated in an information filed in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District thereof, and one Charles Gould named as the informer. Under the acts of Congress of 1861 and 1862, commonly known as the conficcation acts, for the confiscation and forfeiture of 1,756 shares of the capital stock of the Great Western Railroad Company of 1859, and of upwards of $50,000 due of coupons of the boads of the same corporation as the property of defendant on the two-fold ground of the alleged information. The first was the alleged use of the property by Mr. Wiley in aid of the rebellion, under the act of 1862, and the second was the alleged the property by Mr. Wiley in aid of the rebellion, under the act of 1862. Office Chief Commissaey, Military Division of the Tennessi Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 2, 1865.

All through the long bright days of June, Its leaves grew bright and fair, And waved in hot midsummer noon, Its soft and yellow hair, and now with Autumn's moonlit eve Its harvest time is come. We pluck away its frosted leaver, And bear its treasures home. There, richer than the fabled gifts Anallo showered of old, air hands, the broken grain shall sift, And knead its meal of gold.

Let vapid idlers loll in silk, Around the costly board; Give us the bowl of samp and milk, By homespun beauty poured, Then shame on all the proud and vair Whose folly laughs to scorn The blessings of our hardy grain, Our wealth of golden corn, Let earth withhold her goodly root, Let mildew blight the rve. Give to the worm the orchard's fruit, The wheat fields to the fly.

But let the good old crop adorn The hills our fathers trod; Still let us for his golden corn Send up our thanks to God.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE UPON COM-MON SCHOOL EDUCATION.

Considerable prominence has been given by Sovernor Bramlette, in his message, to the nessity of establishing a school for the education of teachers. He says very pointedly: "A adical defect in our system is the want of a chool for the education of teachers. No system of public schools, which fails to provide for the education of teachers, can ever be success. our school system. The plan is no other than to engraft upon the Kentucky and Transylvania Universities a new institution in the shape of a school for teachers, or at least to give "to each county the perpetual scholarships for at least one pupil in the Kentucky University," and to require such scholars, "upon completion of their course, to take charge of a county school for teachers, and instruct teachers in their respective counties, to be selected from each district by the trustees of the school districts, who, in their turn, shall be required to take charge of the district schools of their respective districts." The Governor promises the Legislature nuch good for the Commonwealth from the adoption of this plan, in consequence of the "agricultural and mechanical education" which it would secure to the children.

Concerning the experiment of a normal school, established at Lexington in 1856, and soon afterward abandoned, the Governor says that it 'failed on account of its incompleteness." We very much fear that some future Executive would apply the very same words to the experiment proposed by Governor Bramlette, should the Legislature be blind and economical (2) enough to accept his advice. The normal school of 1856 failed principally because its establishment was merely a sort of an excuse for rorganizing Transylvania University and establish a school for teachers) shows that the normal school was only a secondary object of its passage; and a perusal of the act itself will force upon every unprejudiced person the conviction that Transylvania University was and few teachers to the chairs of the institution, the location of the school in an extravagant and elegant city, which offered too many temptations to the students to follow pleasure instead of labor, the consequent want of firmness in the character, and of thoroughness in the atalamments of the pupils, and their unwillingness or incompetence to teach after leaving the school. ness or incompetence to teach after leaving the school.

The same source of failure exists in the Governor's proposed plan. If possible, the school for teachers would occupy an even less important place in the institution than it did in '56; it would be a sort of a 'iffth wheel," which all concerned would regard and treat as an incumbrance. Other students would look with a sort of contempt upon "those public stipendiaries, who have neither money enough to secure their own education, nor sense enough to choose a calling that will be likely to support them in after life." The pupil-teachers will feel this keenly, and will contract a dislike for their profession that will not only prevent them from following it permanently, but even from acquiring a knowledge of its principles and skill in its practice. If the Governor's plan is adopted, the pupil-teachers will again, as in '56, be compelled to waste the greater part of their time in form of teaching which is notoriously ineffi-cient, instead of being carefully instructed and trained by competent teachers; the school will again be located at Lexington, a city which, on account of its elegant aristocracy, will exert a very dangerous infurere upon all students, and more especially upon those who have chosen the "humble calling" of traching. If nothing else, they will at least lose the little enthusiasm they may feel for their future profession long before they leave the school; and will consequently leave it incompetent to fulfill their obligations, and determined to abandon teaching as soon as practicable. termined to account exercing as soon as practicable.

If the State of Kentucky has recognized the fact that, as the Governor expresses it, the want of a school for the education of teachers is a radical defect in our school system, why should we then not rid ourselves of this defect radically? Why not at once establish a school for teachers capable of thoroughly regenerating the system throughout the whole State in a few years, or, better still, a number of schools, sufficient to supply the whole State in as short a period as possible with competent professional teachers? But in order to do this we must have institutions that are entirely independent of all sers and the public in general that I have on hand institutions that are entirely independent of al other interests, not encumbered with any othe purposes save that of educating good teachers purposes save that of educating good teachers. At any rate, where combinations are made, the education of teachers should be the primary object, to which all others must yield. Nothing short of this will do. All public money expended for anything short of this will be wasted; nay, we fear, worse than wasted, for another failure like that of '56 and '59 would bring normal schools into such disrepute with the good people of Kentucky as to seriously retard our progress in educational affairs.

Some seventy years ago such combinations 103 (old No. 313) Third st., bet. Market & Jefferson d5 dlm Mary A. Bell, &c., Vs. In Equity, Molly B. Cave, &c.

Rentacky as to seriously retard our progress in educational safairs.

Some seventy years ago such combinations were frequent in Germany, and faithful attempts were made to establish seminaries for primary teachers in connection with high-schools and academies. This practice has however, been entirely abandoned on account of its inefficiency, and Germany is now supplied with teachers by more than one hundred and fifty institutions whose sole object is the education of common school teachers. The State of New York, too, has tried the experiment. As early as 1827, the Legislature added the sum of $150,000 to the Literature Fund, and decreed that the whole income of this amount be distributed among the incorporated seminaries and academies in such a manner as to induce them to pay special attention to studies which her young men might need in becoming teachers. This act was modified in 1834 so as to apply the appropriation directly to the "education of teachers for the common schools;" and in 1837 the appropriation was increased by an annual sum of $28,000, resulting from the United States Deposit Fund, and directed to be used in the same manner. We cannot, therefore, say that New York killed fihe experiment by want of liberality. And what has been the result of this experiment, carried on in the best faith and, we might say, with a determination to succeed? The Committee on Education, in their report to the House of Representatives, in 1844, answer this question in the following unequivocal language: "* * * ; and that in the judgment of successive superintendents of common schools, the Regents of the University, and the most end-ment and practical friends of education through-the House of Representatives, in 1844, answer this question in the following unequivocal language: "  and that in the judgment of successive superintendents of common schools, the Regents of the University, and the most eminent and practical friends of education throughout the State, these institutions (the academies), whether considered in the aggregate or with reference to those especially designated, from time to time, for the performance of this important duty, of supplying the common schools with competent teachers, have not succeeded in the accomplishment of that object. Having, therefore, to revert again to the language of the superintendent before referred to proved inadequate to the ends proposed, may not now a changed of plan be insisted on without being open to the objection of abandoning a system which has not been fairly tested? And have the academies any just reason to complain, if they are not longer permitted to enjoy undiminished the liberal appropriations conferred upon them by the State for a specific object, anobject which they have not been able satisfactorily to accomplish? Here then an experiment, made at the same time in twenty-three different academics, falled, falled in a community, too, whose institutions are sufficiently like ours to make it a full example for us. We have ourselves made a similar experiment and failed. Would it not then be at least unwise to "try again" on the same or even on a similar plan?

We know only of one country where combination schools, of which a school for teachers formed a part, proved a success, and this country is Switzerland. There some of the teachers formed a part, proved a success, and this country is Switzerland. There some of the teachers formed a part, proved a success, and this country is Switzerland. ful deliberation upon questions of such moment is a positive gain compared with a year lost in a rash and bungling experiment. Above all things we hope that they will not accept the plan proposed by the Governor until they are fully convinced by analogous facts that its execution must be a success. Let them bok, and look with argus-eyed jealousy for the welfare of the State before they leap into the abyss opening for them in the Governor's proposition.
